XPAY complements its payment card network with Black&White Card as first end-user product

- The Black&Whitecard adds a B2C product to the XPAY payment card network and brings 14,000 existing customers into the network.
- The prepaid Mastercard® duo is available for a one-time fee of €89.90. There are no monthly or annual fees for either card, no Schufa inquiry and no credit check.

November 04, 2019, Munich - XPAY, Munich-based fintech and provider of innovative payment solutions, adds the Black&White Card to its own payment card network - the first in a series of financial products targeted at end users.

The most affordable prepaid Mastercard®

The Black&White Prepaid Mastercard® card is a credit-based Mastercard®. After activation and loading, it can be used at millions of international Mastercard® acceptance points. Unlike most prepaid credit cards, this is a highly embossed card with a design that no longer differs from a classic credit card.

The one-time issuing fee for the Blackcard Prepaid Mastercard® and the Whitecard Prepaid Mastercard® is €89.90 for both cards as a duo. There is neither a monthly fee nor the usual Schufa inquiry or a credit check for either card. In addition, the cards are valid for three years.

B2B network strengthens B2C product

More than 14,000 customers already use the Black&White Card, which will now be integrated into the XPAY payment card network. As a result, customers will also benefit from the advantages of the XPAY Group's existing B2B product, the white label card. The branded prepaid Mastercard®, which serves as a modern customer loyalty and marketing tool for companies of all sizes, offers incentives to accelerate growth in B2B2C.
